TEZRA WEBSITE

FIRST DRAFT REVIEW & CORRECTION NOTES

For Website Development Team

Dear Team,

Thank you for sharing the first draft of the Tezra website.

We have reviewed the website across the homepage, services, news, multimedia, arts, navigation and mobile presentation.

Overall, we like the visual direction, colour palette, typography, clean layout and premium/editorial feel of the website. The first draft provides a good foundation.

However, before proceeding to the final version, we would like the next iteration to address the following areas. Some of these are content corrections, while others relate to the overall brand structure, user experience and positioning of Tezra.

Our objective is not to completely change the design direction, but to refine the existing concept so that the final website accurately represents the Tezra brand, its different verticals and its long-term positioning.

1. BRAND STRUCTURE & HIERARCHY

This is our most important area for clarification.

There are currently several references to:

- Tezra Group

Tezra News
Tezra Media
Tezra Arts

The hierarchy between these entities is not yet completely clear.

We need the website to clearly communicate what Tezra Group is and how the various Tezra businesses/verticals sit within the Group.

The final website should establish a consistent structure and naming system throughout the:

- Homepage
- Navigation

- Services
- Footer
- About section
- Individual verticals
- Contact section

Please do not use different names interchangeably.

We will provide the confirmed Tezra Group structure and official names for each vertical for incorporation into the next draft.

2. HOMEPAGE POSITIONING

The current headline:

“Media. Strategy. Art. One Trusted Platform.”

is visually strong, but we would like the homepage positioning to communicate the larger vision and institutional identity of Tezra.

The homepage should immediately answer:

- What is Tezra?
- What does Tezra represent?
- What does Tezra offer?
- Who does Tezra serve?
- What differentiates Tezra?
- What are the major platforms/verticals within Tezra?

At present, the site communicates the services well, but the larger Tezra story needs to be stronger.

We would like the next draft to explore a more powerful institutional positioning statement rather than making the homepage feel primarily like a services/agency website.

3. “ONE PLATFORM. FOUR DISCIPLINES.”

We like the concept and visual execution of this section.

However, the wording and structure should be reviewed against the final Tezra Group architecture.

The four areas should be presented consistently and should correspond exactly with the official Tezra structure.

We also suggest exploring stronger wording such as:

“Four Disciplines. One Tezra.”

or another statement that communicates unity across the different verticals.

4. NAVIGATION

The current navigation is clean and functional, but the hierarchy needs to be reviewed.

The mobile menu currently contains:

- Home
- About
- Services
- News
- Media
- Arts
- Contact

This is a good starting point, but the final navigation should clearly distinguish between Tezra Group/company information and the individual Tezra verticals.

Please ensure that navigation terminology is consistent with the final corporate structure.

5. SERVICES PAGE

The Services page is visually strong, but the service categories need to be reviewed.

The current presentation uses:

- Marketing & Consultation
- News
- Media

while Arts is presented separately.

If Tezra has four core verticals, the structure should make this immediately understandable.

The services should also be grouped according to the actual businesses/verticals rather than simply presenting a collection of services.

6. MARKETING & CONSULTATION

The current heading:

“Marketing & Consultation”

should be reviewed.

The actual services presented include:

- Corporate Communications Strategy
- Crisis Communications & Reputation Management
- Media Relations & Press Office Management
- Digital Marketing & Performance Advertising

- Brand Positioning & Identity Consulting
- Executive Thought Leadership
- Investor Relations Communications
- Campaign Planning & Execution

This is much broader and more strategic than the current heading suggests.

We would like the naming and positioning of this vertical reviewed so that it reflects the level of strategic communications and consulting services being offered.

7. TEZRA NEWS

The News section is one of the most important parts of the website and should eventually feel like a proper editorial platform, not simply a page containing articles.

The current sector structure is a good foundation:

- Financial Services
- Power & Energy
- Treasury
- Renewable Energy

However, we would like the News platform to have a stronger editorial structure, potentially incorporating areas such as:

- Latest News
- Analysis
- Features
- Interviews
- Insights/Opinions

The final categories will be provided by Tezra.

8. NEWS CONTENT MUST BE DYNAMIC

This is particularly important.

The current featured article is dated June 2, 2025.

Because Tezra News is intended to be an active news platform, the website should be structured so that new stories can easily be uploaded and displayed.

We would like the News section to support:

- Latest articles
- Featured stories
- Category filtering
- Individual article pages
- Author information
- Publication date
- Reading time

- Related articles
- Social sharing
- Search engine optimisation
- Easy content management/update

The homepage should not appear static or dependent on manually changing every article.

9. NEWS STATISTICS

The website currently displays:

- 120+ Financial Services articles
- 85+ Power & Energy articles
- 64+ Treasury articles
- 48+ Renewable Energy articles

Please do not use these figures as final numbers until they are confirmed by Tezra.

All statistics, audience figures, article counts, client numbers and claims presented on the website must be verified before publication.

10. MULTIMEDIA

The Multimedia section is visually strong and we like the direction.

However, we would like it to eventually communicate Tezra's actual production capabilities and portfolio, rather than relying primarily on stock imagery.

The section should accommodate:

- Video production
- Documentary production
- Interviews
- Podcast production
- Corporate films
- Event coverage
- Executive profiles
- Social content
- Multimedia campaigns

There should also be space for Selected Work/Portfolio as Tezra's own productions become available.

11. FEATURED MEDIA

We like the:

“Watch. Listen. Engage.”

concept.

However, the featured content should ultimately consist of actual Tezra productions.

The platform should allow us to feature:

- Videos
- Podcasts
- Interviews
- Documentaries
- Industry conversations
- Masterclasses
- Special reports

The content should be easy for the Tezra team to update.

12. TEZRA ARTS

The Arts section is visually appealing, but we would like Tezra Arts to feel more like a distinct creative vertical rather than simply an “Arts Collection” attached to the media website.

The structure should eventually allow for:

- Artists
- Artworks
- Collection
- Available Works
- Exhibitions
- Commissions
- Art Advisory
- Private Acquisition
- Institutional/Corporate Collections

We also want to use Tezra's actual artists and artworks wherever possible rather than relying on generic gallery imagery.

13. ABOUT TEZRA

The website needs a stronger About section that explains the story, purpose and ambition of Tezra.

The About section should communicate:

- Who Tezra is
- Why Tezra exists
- Our vision
- Our mission
- Our values
- Our areas of expertise
- Our approach
- Our long-term ambition
- How the different Tezra verticals work together

We want this to feel like an institutional brand story, rather than a generic company description.

14. LEADERSHIP

Please create a proper section/page for Leadership.

This should allow us to include:

- Name
- Position
- Professional biography
- Photograph
- LinkedIn/social profile where appropriate

This is important for establishing trust and credibility.

15. OUR WORK / PORTFOLIO

We would like the website architecture to accommodate a proper:

“Our Work”

or

“Selected Work”

section.

This can eventually include:

- Campaigns
- Corporate communications
- Media productions
- News projects
- Events
- Art exhibitions
- Brand projects
- Client work
- Case studies

This will allow Tezra to demonstrate its capabilities rather than simply describe them.

16. CLIENTS / PARTNERS / CREDIBILITY

Please create space for a future:

“Clients & Partners”

or

“Trusted By”

section.

This can include approved client/institutional logos once supplied.

We would also like the site to accommodate:

- Testimonials
- Case studies
- Media features
- Partnerships
- Institutional collaborations

where applicable.

17. IMAGERY

The current imagery works for the first draft.

However, for the final website, we would like to progressively replace generic stock imagery with Tezra-owned photography, productions, artworks, events and actual work.

This is particularly important for:

- Tezra News
- Tezra Media
- Tezra Arts
- Leadership
- About Tezra
- Our Work

The objective is for the website to feel unmistakably Tezra, rather than like a premium corporate template.

18. CALL-TO-ACTION

The current:

“Ready to Work With Us?”

section is good, but we would like the final CTA to be more purposeful.

The website serves different audiences, so visitors should eventually be able to identify what they are contacting Tezra about.

Potential enquiry categories could include:

- Strategic Communications
- Media/Production
- Advertising/Partnership
- News/Editorial
- Art Acquisition

- Art Commission
- General Enquiry

We would like the developers to consider this when designing the contact journey.

19. CONTACT INFORMATION

Please replace all placeholder information.

In particular:

“+234 000 000 0000”

must be replaced with the official Tezra contact number.

Please also confirm:

- Official email address
- Office address
- Social media accounts
- Contact form recipient
- Business enquiry channels

No placeholder information should remain in the final version.

20. FOOTER

The footer is visually good, but the content should be reviewed after the final Tezra Group structure has been confirmed.

The footer should clearly distinguish:

Company
- About
- Mission
- Leadership
- Careers
- Press Room

Our Platforms
- Tezra Marketing & Consulting
- Tezra News
- Tezra Media
- Tezra Arts

Connect
- Email
- Phone
- Location
- Social media

The copyright year should also be updated appropriately.

21. MOBILE EXPERIENCE

The mobile design is generally good, but please conduct a full responsive review across:

- iPhone
- Android
- iPad/tablets
- Desktop
- Different screen sizes/orientations

Please check:

- Navigation
- Menu
- Buttons
- Text wrapping
- Image cropping
- Video
- Forms
- Page loading
- Footer
- Scrolling
- Interactive elements

We want the mobile version to receive the same level of attention as desktop.

22. WEBSITE FUNCTIONALITY

Before the final version, please ensure that all buttons and links are functional.

This includes:

- Get in Touch
- Book a Consultation
- Send an Email
- Read Latest News
- Read Article
- Browse Collection
- Explore Services
- Social media icons
- Navigation links
- Contact forms

No dead links or placeholder destinations should remain.

23. SEO & DIGITAL INFRASTRUCTURE

Since Tezra News will be an important part of the website, please ensure the site is built with proper SEO foundations, including:

- Page titles
- Meta descriptions
- Proper heading hierarchy
- Image alt text
- Search-friendly URLs
- Article structured data where applicable
- Social sharing previews
- Google indexing
- Sitemap
- Robots configuration
- Fast page loading
- Mobile optimisation

We would also like the News platform to be built in a way that supports continued content publishing without requiring a developer for every update.

24. CONTENT MANAGEMENT

Please ensure that the Tezra team can easily update:

- News articles
- Featured stories
- Multimedia
- Videos
- Podcasts
- Artworks
- Artists
- Events
- Contact information
- Homepage features

The website should not be overly dependent on the developer for routine content changes.

25. BRAND CONSISTENCY

The current navy/white visual identity, typography and clean editorial style are strong and should largely be retained.

We do not want to unnecessarily redesign the website.

Instead, we want to refine the existing visual direction so that it feels:

Premium.
Intelligent.
Institutional.

Modern.
Editorial.
Creative.
Distinctly Tezra.

26. FINAL CONTENT WILL BE PROVIDED BY TEZRA

We will provide the confirmed information required for the next stage, including:

- Official company/vertical names
- Company descriptions
- Mission
- Vision
- Values
- Leadership information
- Service descriptions
- News categories
- Contact details
- Social media accounts
- Approved photographs
- Artwork information
- Artist information
- Client/partner information where applicable
- Portfolio material
- Any relevant statistics

Please structure the website so these materials can be incorporated cleanly.

27. OVERALL DIRECTION FOR DRAFT 2

For the next version, we would like the website to move from simply being a well-designed corporate website to becoming a digital representation of the Tezra institution.

The website should communicate:

Who Tezra is.
What Tezra knows.
What Tezra creates.
Who Tezra serves.
What Tezra stands for.
Where Tezra is going.

The visual foundation is strong, so we would like to retain the core design language while strengthening the content, hierarchy, brand architecture, functionality and credibility.

PRIORITY CORRECTIONS FOR THE NEXT DRAFT

To make the next stage easier, please prioritise the following:

1. Clarify Tezra Group/Tezra Media/vertical hierarchy.
2. Review homepage positioning and headline.

3. Establish consistent naming throughout the website.
4. Rework the Services structure.
5. Strengthen Tezra News architecture and make it dynamic.
6. Review Tezra Arts positioning.
7. Create stronger About/Leadership sections.
8. Create space for portfolio/case studies and credibility.
9. Replace placeholder contact information.
10. Replace/update outdated content.
11. Review imagery and begin incorporating actual Tezra material.
12. Ensure all buttons, links and forms are functional.
13. Optimise the complete mobile experience.
14. Build a flexible content-management structure for ongoing updates.
15. Ensure the final site is SEO-ready and scalable.

FINAL NOTE

We are happy with the overall creative direction of Draft 1 and believe it provides a strong foundation. The intention of this feedback is to refine and strengthen the website rather than restart the design process.

The next draft should incorporate the above corrections and provide a clearer representation of Tezra's identity, structure, authority and long-term vision.

Thank you.
